The Complexities of Digital Cognition are not that Complex

- It's not so much the twin that you need, as much as it is the cognition...
- Digital Twins don't have to be complex; they just must be continually utilized
- Complex programs offered by developers only serve the developer – not the client
- In-house personnel are capable given the correct and widely available tools

AI disrupts a $900B oil and gas industry's pre-drill analytics.

- AI can change historical methods from qualitative comparisons of data types to highly accurate state-of-the-art AI powered quantitative comparisons in a much shorter time frame, 1 - 2 hours versus many man-months.
- PINN AI's average costs are a tiny fraction of historical methods. A great value proposition to all Oil and Gas Industry participants including technical teams (for which it's designed), owners/operators, A&D due diligence teams, prospectors, law firms, private equity & debt, commercial bankers, among others.
- Our Platform is designed for geologists and petroleum engineers as a vital tool to streamline their work flow, never to replace them.
